

WHAT IS A SMOG CHECK?

The Smog Check Program is an important part of the State's efforts to improve the air we breathe. Smog Check inspections are designed to identify vehicles with excess emissions so they can be properly repaired. The Program has greatly reduced air pollution created by millions of cars in California.

WHO OVERSEES THE SMOG CHECK PROGRAM?

The California Department of Consumer Affairs' Bureau of Automotive Repair administers the Smog Check Program. Vehicles are inspected each year by more than 7,000 State-licensed and independently owned stations throughout the State.

IS MY VEHICLE SUBJECT TO A SMOG CHECK?

Gasoline-powered vehicles, hybrid vehicles, and alternative-fuel vehicles that are model year 1976 and newer require a Smog Check, with the following exceptions:

- (1) Six model-years and newer do not need a biennial (every other year) inspection.
- (2) Four model-years and newer do not need a change-of-ownership inspection.

To determine the first year a vehicle is subject to a biennial or change-of-ownership Smog Check, add six or four, respectively, to the model year of a vehicle. For example, a 2010 model-year vehicle will first be subject to a biennial Smog Check in 2016 (2010 + 6 = 2016) and a change-of-ownership Smog Check in 2014 (2010 + 4 = 2014).

Diesel-powered vehicles 1998 and newer with a gross vehicle weight rating of 14,000 pounds and less require a Smog Check.

Motorcycles and electric-powered vehicles are currently exempt from the Smog Check Program.

If your vehicle is subject to a Smog Check, it must be tested every other year as a condition of registration. An inspection is also required if you sell a vehicle and when registering a vehicle for the first time in California.

HOW CAN I FIND A SMOG CHECK STATION IN MY AREA?

HOW WILL I KNOW IF MY VEHICLE NEEDS A TEST AT A STAR STATION?

Your DMV registration renewal form will indicate whether your vehicle requires a Smog Check at a STAR station.

HOW MUCH DOES A SMOG CHECK COST?

The Bureau of Automotive Repair does not regulate inspection prices, but recommends that you shop around and compare prices of several different stations before taking your vehicle in for its Smog Check.

WHAT IF MY VEHICLE FAILS A SMOG CHECK?

Ask the inspector to explain the reason for the failure and then seek a repair technician to correct the problem. Many inspectors are also licensed to perform repairs.

If you have a dispute about the results of your Smog Check, you can file a complaint online with the Bureau of Automotive Repair. Or, if you would like a second opinion about the inspection, schedule an appointment with a State-authorized Referee by calling (800) 622-7733 or by visiting www.asktheref.org.

HOW CAN I HELP MY VEHICLE PASS A SMOG CHECK?

Performing regular and proper maintenance according to your owner's manual and not tampering with the emissions-control equipment will help improve your vehicle's chances of passing a Smog Check. If the "Check Engine" light comes on, take your vehicle to a licensed repair station as soon as you can to have the problem diagnosed—do not wait for the vehicle's next scheduled Smog Check. A blinking or flashing light indicates a malfunction that should be addressed immediately to avoid serious damage to the engine or emission-control systems. Check your owner's manual for repairs that may be covered under your vehicle manufacturer's emissions warranty.
